A slave that can hoe is excellent. A slave that can sow is delightful. A slave that can neap is admirable. A slave that tan gather into barns is a treasure. A slave that will not run away is indeed a possession. A slave that will stand anything, from the cat and the paddle up to the vendition of his wife and children, is an Abrahamic model. Here one would suppose the catalogue of slavish virtues might end, unless we add to it that dubious virtue of fecundity, man which decency will not permit us to dilate.

The News.

The United States Sensie was opened with prager by a Catholic clergyman vesterday morning. It is the first occusion in the history of on government that the entire vestments of the though costs have been seen in either chamber, and the telegraph represents it as being the taken of much curiosity and interest at Washington.

The oldest senort-house in Boston was drestracted by fire yesterday afternoon.

We have like news from Havans, and the particulars of a vessel foundering at ree.
In our mathet reports this morning there is bothing of epocial interest to notice.

The weather cruticular mild, and we shall have to cripy Chiismas as bost we can without sheighing this year.

Further Particulars of the Slaver Wandscrept Cargo.

The Augusta Serifiel learns from good authors thosity, that about 277 of the wild Africans, a patt to be inversed in the private and pointed in the particular of the Slaver was a roul in the last aright not merely to the brains, but to whatever came out of the brains of his private and possed the first petitioned the Scinate that, if the Patent Office, would not could not, or should not, issue a patt to be been supplied. Therefore, whou this two-legged thing came up, there was a row in the Office, and a head, and two hands, absolutely pretend—ing to have invented something! No plough over applied. No horse over applied. Therefore, whon this two-leggend thing came up, there was a row in the Office, and the magnates ordered her or him or it to go about his, ber or its business, and pointedly declined to issue an fived fact that no "nigger" could invent anything. In this way was the negro of Mr. Oscar J. E. Stewart, who had a right not merely to the brains, but to whatever came out of the brains of his private and portation.

thority, that about 277 of the wild Africans, a portion of the cargo of the Wanderer, are now on a plantation in South Caroline, on the Savanrah River, having been blought there on board i a stramboat from some point near Savannah, and will soon be offered for sale. Sales have already been made of some of the cargo.

The Augusta Disnatch has the following :

Two hundred and seventy-seven of the cargo of Africans recently landed near Brunswick, were brought up the Savannah River, and put ashors at the mouth of Horse Oreck, three miles below this city, on the Carolina side. One of the river bosts it supposed to have taken them by Savaunah in the night, to a point twelve miles we learn on good authority that the original cargo consisted of 420, and that not one of them died or wes seriously ill on the passage. It is supposed that the Wanderer acted only as a desupposed that the Wanderer acted only as a decepy boat, and that the vessel that brought them lead large. Citizens of our city are probably interested in the enterprise, and those brought up the river are supposed to be their share of "the spoils," and have been distributed on their planstitions. It is quietly hitted that this ishes third. tations. It is quietly hinted that this is the third cargo landed by the same company during the

We learn that one of our citizens has bought a slave from the lot recently landed just below this city, for which be paid $250. He is a stout-bey shout 14 years old, and considerable curi-osity has been manifested this morning to see distinguished visitor."

The question has often been asked, What The question has often been naked, What practical good can result from the agitation of the revival of the slave trade? We point to this cargo of storedy laborers, delivered from the darkness and humbasism of Africa, to be alcreated and christianized on our soil. We point to this price paid for the jolly son of the jungles, and compare it with the exorbitant prices paid for the lancy and less valuable negroes here. And we claim that these result ears the hesigning of

ONE OF THE PLATFORMS .- The rditor of the Southern Star, a Democratic paper, being sick recently, had to avail himself of the services of a friend in the management of his paper. The friend was an old Whig, but of course did not take advantage of his accidental position to by the mutual piedge of fidelity to each other, change the politics of the paper. On taking the helm, he amounted the following as his platform, and we have no doubt that it proved according to the parties. ceptable to the Star's renders :

1. We are opposed to spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, with perhaps a mental recervation in favor of Scutch ale and shorry cobblors.

2. We are in favor of letting the "Retired Physician's sands of life" run out.

3. We are in favor of the passage of an ant decising the Mobile and Obio Railroad ravigation to the place.

These principles, we believe, do not conflict with the political opinions which our friend has so ably advocated in the columns of the Etar, and upon his recovery we will "transmit them unimpaired" to his keeping.

A CLEVELAND VESSEL IN THE BOSPHORES.— The schooner D. B. Sexton, from this port, arrived safely in Constantinople on the 8th of November, after a rough passage up the Meditera-nean. The captain states that he out-sailed everything in his course, and was the first of a fact of 150 sail that arrived at this port, and without breaking a rope-yarn or leaking a drop.

This vessel has attracted much attention there, for its fine qualities as a fast sailer, and applications were made for her purchase.

While in an undecided state of mind, he was met by an old companion and induced to go to a place of revelry, where he met dissolute men and abandens women, and spent the nights in dissipation.—
This was the end of his religious impressions, and his course was rapidly downward, till it soon ended in madness and the commission of that most unuatural crime in which his brief career ended. The history is a sad and instructive one

DEATH OF JAMES HALPIN.-James Halpin one of earliest settlers, and well known through-out the State, died at his residence in this city, this afternoon. Mr. Halpin was for many years Superintendent of Public Property, about the capitol, and in that capreity obtained the sobricapitol, and in that capreity obtained the sobri-quet of "Governor," by which he was familiarly addressed. He possessed many excellent quali-ties, but was his own worst enemy. FEVER AND AGUE -A CASE OF EIGHT MONTHS STIPDISG DURAD BY BORREYS'S MODILYD BUTTERY - Michael Kelly, No. 117 Seventh, near Grant Street, 1979:
"Last July, while running on the river, on a cotton-boat plying between Natchez and New Orleans, I was taken with Pever and Ague. For eight long months I ambered with this dreadful disease. The greater part of this time I was unable to work, and spent at least fifty dollars for different medicines, but found no permanent relief. Three weeks ago, one of my friends insisted upon my trying Beasarve's Hollband Birtrass, esping that a cure coss guarantietd. After taking it for one week, I must state I was a sound man. I have been at work now for two weeks, and have had no return of the Chills and Fere.

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 25.

Christmas. This time-honored Festival has come round our readers with "a Merry Christmas," and such we trust it will be to them all. The Festival which this morning ushers upon us, is that of the Nativity of our blessed Savier, and as such is honored and observed by all who hold the Christian faith. It is, too, particularly a Social Fastival, embalmed in the heart of hearts of miltions of our fellow men. Above ell others it is a season of charity, when the busy world's cold heart is warmed and softener by the genial influences of the occasion, and good deeds ballow a good day. In days of yore our ancestors celebrated the day by a series of grand banquets, in which, while the great were feasted the poor were not forgotter. And at the present day all through "Merrie England" Christmas Carols, Christmas Games, Ohrlatmas Catherings, and last, though not least, Christmas_Charities, proclaim the advent and gladden the golden hours for the needy, the sick, and the suffering. How many bright eyes will be open early this morning and how many little pattering teet will anxiously transle down stairs to show what wondroug things SANTA CLAUS has done during the hours of darkness! But, alsa! to how many listle ones Santa Chaus brings no gifts and Obvistmas sends no holiday! Ye happy and favored once, who have fond parents, kind friends and comfortable homes, think to day of those who have few, or none of these blessings and give of your abundance to cheer their sad hearts and gladden their desolated homes. Read and remember of Christmas. In our own happy country Christmas is a day, not only of religious observance, but of money-making, of gift-giving, of family and friendly reunions, of kindly intercourse between man and man, and of generous provision

THE POOR BOY'S PRAYER TO ST. MICHOLAS, "I saw in my dream," and a poor boy prayed, And there were words of the prayer which he said, "St. Nicholas! once I used to be glad When Christmas came round, but now I am "zd." For since we have been poor, you never some near us,—
We are so far dozon fason I suppose you can't hear us,
You are buy up town with all your gay things—
Books, dells, candy, cakes, fruit, penknives sad rings.
I dont ask for these—but for semathing to est,
Seme clothing, and firing and shoes for my feet. Oh! was it the way which the Saints did of yore, To give to the rich and not visit the poor?

Come, come to us now, and prove you're no stranger; To Kim who to bless us was born in a manger. But if you should come, mind! a bare-legged bey No stockings can hang for your sweet gifts of joy So bring me, good Saint, if you know how to spin them A pair of warm socks and some bits of bread in them."
So ended the prayer; and strange as it may seen...
Just then "I awoke, and behold, 'twas a dream."

Christman brings its delights too, to "children of larger growth," and is the appropriate season of many a festive gathering. The salutation which springs to every lip and falls upon avery ear today, opous all hearts and man sees his fellow man a brother and a friend-would that these genial influences did not se soon pass away. Would that this "good time" were of longer duration .-Yet brief as it is, and speedy as its golden hours will flit away, let them not pass unheeded and un-Improved. Ye rich, and prosperous, make the sons and daughters of powerty partakers of your joy, and sharers in the good things which Heaven has freely bestowed upon you. So shall your Christmas fire-sides gleam the brighter and your carols sound the sweeter. And so that you makes the occasion the subject of the remarks surely find to-day a "Menty Curtifixas!"

Indiana, to the effect that a "distinguished United States Senator, had on one occasion won $180,000 at fare, in Washington City, referred to JAMES A. PEARCE, of Maryland. Hx-Governor Coawin has published the following letter, including Senator Pearce's own denial of the charge:

LEBANON, Dec. 6, '58. DEAR Sin:—I received yesterday from Senator Pearco a letter, from which I extract the follow-

"A friend tells me that I am indebted to you for the contradiction of a scandal, which I should very unwilling to have generally believed, and which strangely enough, got into one of our Ohio papers. I refer to the story of my winning $180,000 at a gaming-house in Washington.— You were right in denying the statement. I Too were right in denying the statement. I never lost or won $\frac{1}{2}$ in any gaming house whatever. I never spoke to Mr. Pendleton in my life, and never was incide any gambling-house in Washington. I look upon such places as the gates of hell, and eschew them everywhere." I have heard that some former member of Congress from Indiana gave you the information, which authorized the original publication of this story in the Lafayette Journal. You will see by the above statement of Mr. Peacee, whom I know to be amongst the accomplished and worthy gentlemen in America, prompts me to make this communication to you. I am sure you will take pleasure in correcting an error in-to which you have very innocently fallen. The original publication in your paper has been copi-ed into many others, and thus a large circulation given to a report prejudicial to one highly esteemed by all who knew him for his talents and integrity in public life, and the virtues and accomplishments which endear him to his friends.

Yours truly,

For the Sentinel. Meteorology of the Lakes.

La training

The public have been much grafified to learn that Lieut, Marar has given his attention to this subject; and especially that Oapt, MEADE, in charge of the Lake Eurveys, has adopted a system of observations extending over the whole tem of observations extending over the whole chain of Lakes, the results of which cannot be eitherwise than of great usefulness. It perhaps ought, also, at this time to be made known that a numerous corps of volunteer meteorological observers have been industriously engaged, without payfor patronage, in collecting the data so much desired by Lieu! Mayar. These observations have already extended over a number of the Milford do, Salvor of Hartford; Win Cushvations have already extended over a number of the Milford do, Salvor of Hartford; Win Cushvations have already extended over a number of vations have already extended over a number of years and are sufficient to show many very im - d

They extend over the whole series of Lakes from Ogdenaburg to Supeagain, and once more we are enabled to greet as 1836. These valuable services, gratuitoualy

It was supposed that the State Canvasors would close their labors last evening; but the discovery of some important informalities, rendered as adjournment improper.

On reaching the "Tarpector of State Prizons," it was discoveren that over 60,000 votes awere returned as having been cant far "State Prison Inspector." This not being the legal title of the office, the Atterney-Ganeral argued that there was no alternative but to throw them out. It may not be impreper for mo to add, that very numerous observations have been made here to ascertain the character of the fluctuations of the level of Lake Michigan, one of the results of which was assummed by me in the Milwaukee Daily Sentinel & Gazette, of Sept. 3d, 1249, in the following words:

It areme to us that if this action be less concerted, and these petitions go straggling into Congress at different times and perhaps of a different character, and the matter is allowed to go the whole round of "the circumicoution of office," that the ends desired will be attained far its speedily.

In Lieut, Maury's lecture, however, he does not oppear to be award of one fact. (We should have presumed otherwise.) That is, though this subject has never till now so thoroughly been brought before the public, nevertheless, "the meteorological survey of the Likes" is no now thing; his very ideas and suggestions form already a large department in "The Survey of the N, and M. W. Lakes." It is true, this dopartment has as yet made but little progress; still, in the fact of its existence and its present beginnings, it cannot be desied to be in advance of Liout, Maury's auggestions.

The public learned this from Capt. Geo. C. Medde's statement in your paper a few days ago, and it is a feet this contribute.

The pulse learned this from Capt. Geo. G. Meade's sistement in your paper a few days ago, and it is a fact alike oraditable to the Topographical Bureau and to the Superintondent of the Lake Survey. We are informed that there are now in the effice of the Survey in this eight the tow in the effice of the Survey in this only twenty-five complete sets of meteorological instruments, of all descriptions, which are to be distributed at early spring, in addition to those stroady in operation upon the Lakes, and that observations of this character are to form a large mark of the duties of the officers to the Survey. Here, then, is this whole theory, without especial assistance and without noise, quielly but effectually put into practice. He tells his story with the coolness of a philosopher, and begins by observing that it is highly important for those who travel from London to Edinburg in a day, and who cannot read a ray it sleen in a railway.

who travel from London to Edinburg in a day, and who cannot read or go to sleep in a railway carriage, to secure for themselves an agreeble travelling companion:

Having to take this journey very often, and laboring under the above disadvantages, as I do, the practice of looking out for eligible fellow passengers, at King's Cross or Euston Square, has made me pretty certain in my judgments. The reader will remember that in Europe they do not use the long cars in which passengers are scated together but the train is made up of a number of carriages, in which travellers are classified necording to the rate they are willing to pay, there being usually three classes, numbered first, second and third. Our philosophic friend, it seems, was one of the first class, and having had a good deal of railroad experience, he goes on to tell us dozeh times; it was not through solicitude for your neat appearance, for you never touched the bow of it, nor does it misfit you, or tickle your neck, because, instead of scatching, you simply

I fell exceedingly desirous to know exactly how garroting was effected, but how was I to put such a question to so inoffensive and gendemanike a scoundre! At last I mustered resolution enough, Did he language to have heard from any capacitat.

any Extraction at this arowal was, as may be imagined, complete. It was like the cuestion about Moogoumont mooted among the omnibus passongers, being referred to the strango gentleman in the corner with the Roman nose who turned out to be the Duke of Wellington.

How cloquent did my fraudulect friendbecome about this his favorite topic! What spirit he three into his descriptions! What har-breadth escares from the pulse and citize the interior and Lensing out of the window as the train began to move, the wind carried away his glossy hat, whereupon, instead of sitting down forlormly, and muttering "good gradious!" or "confound it!" the young man sci-zed upon his hat-box, and launched that after the escapes from the police and other intrusive per-sons interrupting him in the pursuits of his voca-tion he had at various times experienced. Left alone with his man he had rarely been unsuccess. wed upon his hat-box, and launched that after the limitsing property.

"My bat-box," he exclaimed in answer to my stare of amazement, "has got my Edinburg address on it, but my hat has not. The one is of little use without the other, and it is probable, since we have berely left the station, that they will both be found and forwarded to me by the next train."

Here was an original. Here was a grand exception to five-fifths of the buman race who travel in first class carriages! I hugged myself at the notion of having secured so promising a companion, and that, too, after such a couple of previous escapes.

"But how do you know?" I urged, because I had nothing better to say, and was determined, I would be supported by the say." I would be seen that a man of your size, for instar laughed good-humoredly, "it would be ful. Once, however, with a gramastic gentle-man—a hadequin in plain clothes, returning home from the theatre—who had thrown a somersant clean over his head; and once with a stout party from a city dinner, who had no neck, positively none, to altered the operator a chance, and who bit my poor friend's arm in such a manner tha it was uscless for weeks afterward.

"And you did these feats of yourself and without any assistance?" I inquired with some increduity.

"Quite alone sir," replied he, "but, in all cases, the garrotes were several inches shorter than myseif; with a man of your size, for instance," and he laughed good-humoredly, "it would be almost an impossibility."

I laughed very heartily at this notion, too.—
Would he be so good as to show me, just to give me an example how the thing was done?

"I throw my arm from the back of your neck, like this," said he, suffing the action to the word, but with the year expected, delicacy of touch—

the carriers instead of sitting on the Rocarries

"You are sure I am not inconveniencing you."

"Not at all," said I. "Go on."

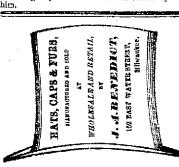

"I then close the fore arm tightly. Sloop a little lower, if you please; thank you, and impress the windpipe with ""."

Where was I? Why I was lying on the foor of the carriers instead of sitting, on the carriers. Where was I? Why I was lying on the floor of the carriage instead of sitting on the corner seat? Why was my neckloth unfastened, and where were the bank notes which it contained? These questions in company with many others, presented themselves into my mind just as the train glided into Carlisle station. Above all, were was my agreeable compation? I knew by the uncerting Brudshaw that the rain stopped nowhere between Preston and—Yes, but it did though, just for one minute at the junction of the Windermore line, to drop passengers but not to take them up.

suddenly, "there is no occasion for us two to quarrel; only nothing puts me so out of temper as to see a man proud of his ignorance. Now, you are a keen, long-headed fellow enough, I can see, but you don't know anything."

"Perhaps not," I replied, still annoyed by the man's manner, and at the unaccustomed position of second fiddle in which I found myself; "but I have no ambition to learn thieves, logic."

"What a type of the respectible classes of this country you do albord," mused the other coolis, "in this your excessive obsinacy and conceit.—
You have no ambition to learn, and yet, I dare say, that you, yourself, are concerned, either distingtion of indirectly, in endeavoring to diminish cline, and to putdown the profession of roguery. Previous to the outrage the man's conduct had been certainly quite irreproachable. He reasoned too, perhaps, that since he had so fully "put me up to the time of day," I should have no further occasion for my gold repeater. At all events, my traveling acquaintance had taken that away with him.

MILWICKER & MORIOON R. R., Dec. 25.-659 bush wheat, 836 bus onts, 80 bus com, 182 bus barley, 65 bush WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

To-morrow being Christmas, we have to make up ou The week, thus far, has been quite a busy one in near ly all the departments of trade, and all that has prevent ed the markets from being unusually active, is the small amount of produce coming forward. The receipts of feur and grain are in about the same proportion as thos for last week, but there has been a large falling off h hoge. In regard to market prices we can report an advance of full 250 on flour, 2630 on catra wheat, both spring and winter, 5a50 on ryo, and about 25a490 on

In other articles there is no change of importance. Dressed hogs, as we expected, have been coming up steadily since last finturday, and prices are now very nearly up to the highest point reached this season. The receipts here already exceed the whole number packed last season by about two theusand head, and there can not therefore, be a great many more on hand for marks

The receipts for the past five days are as follows:

Received thus far this season ...... 22,801 do Good heavy hogs averaging 200 paunds and upward sell readily at $5.97%, $6 and $6.13%, and light hogs averaging 140 to 150 lbs, $5.55a$5.55. Market classing firm 7 Provisions have also advanced, and we necessare improvement of about hije per bbi on pork. Mess pork held pretty firmly at $15, and there have several sales t are fir firm as last reported.

The cargo of the propeller Oriental, 3,245 bbis of flour, nor that of the propeller Bufalo, 1,80) bbls of figur, wer nor that of the propeller Sufacto, 1,80) belts of flutt, were not included in our last table of exports. We have a leo learned that the Oriental took a cargo from this port shortly after the opening of navigation last spring, which was not reported at the Custom Hesse, she having cleared from Chicago, we believe, before coming here. Whits the exact amount of her cargo was, we cannot ascartain, but 8,000 believe wild not, probably, be far from the mark. Making these corrections, and adding in the cargo of the Milwankee Belle, which quared to-day for Grand Hawen with 1,914 bbls flour, our exports of flour and wheat for the past two years would compare as follows:

| 1857 | 1858 | Joceass | Wheat bur | 2,698,811 | 2,918,000 | 1,231,295 | Flour, bbis | 288,441 | 268,981 | 55,614 Aggregate increase, 1,497,810 bus wheat

The total receipts by Railroad for the past five days are as follows:

Wheat; bus, 22;145 Peality, lbw 2,925
